“Communication with the client is very hands-on at Cawley. Instead of just an automated flow of information, we keep our clients up-to-date on a personal level.”

Michael O'Leary joined Cawley Chicago in 2015. His prior work experience was in the construction business where he worked primarily on residential and commercial renovations in the Chicagoland area. Michael was a superintendent with Highgate Builders, one of the premier residential builders in the northern suburbs. While working there he supervised the completion of multimillion dollar custom homes. Being able to drive multiple projects forward from start to finish proves beneficial when assisting business owners with their time sensitive real estate needs.

Michael represents property owners and tenants in and around South Suburban Chicagoland in the acquisition and leasing of industrial real estate assets.
