“Our goal is to make the client feel important, respected, and comfortable and to create more value than originally expected.”

Ryan Freed is an experienced commercial real estate professional who joined Cawley Chicago in the fall of 2014. Previously, Ryan worked with Suburban Real Estate Services. Initially focused on business development, Ryan's role has expanded to include representing Tenants and Landlords in Chicago's East-West Corridor.

Ryan leverages his construction background to provide perspective and insight for his clients while saving them time and money. By understanding the transaction through the perspectives of the landlord and tenant, Ryan is dedicated to achieving client objectives.

Ryan received his BA from North Central College where he was involved in many activities, both on- and off-campus, including Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE), the American Marketing Association case competition, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) and a mission trip to Kenya, Africa. Ryan and his wife also serve in several local and international service organizations, such as their church's youth group ministry, Feed My Starving Children, the local American Cancer Society events, and Potter's House (Guatemala).
